

Theological Education That Grounds Your Social Justice Work

Meadville Lombard Theological School, a Unitarian Universalist identity institution, is an intentionally pluralist learning community committed to furthering the transformative potential of liberal religion. We welcome students from diverse faith traditions and all identities, and nurture their formation into spiritually grounded faith leaders engaged with the works of equity, justice, and compassion.

We firmly believe that justice-making and spiritual growth are bound together, and our curriculum design reflects it. As a teaching and learning community, we emphasize that leadership requires deep accountability in communities and prepare students to be effective leaders in our multiracial, multicultural world.

Meadville Lombard is accredited by the Association of Theological Schools (ATS) in the United States and Canada.
